ASA is pleased to open the Call for Proposals for On Aging 2025, with a special emphasis on content that highlights our Ageism & Culture priority area.

ASA members have always been tireless advocates—resourceful, creative and dedicated to creating a better society for older people. We will use this conference to highlight and further that mission. To be an ASA member is to be innovative and committed to achieving social impact. So, this year, we are seeking proposals to On Aging 2025 that showcase the thought leadership and innovation used to propel an accurate and age-inclusive conversation with partners from all sectors. Ageism is pervasive, impacting everything from economics and healthcare to climate change. We hope to highlight the breadth of impact we can collectively achieve for individuals, communities, systems and for society at large when we acknowledge that age-inclusion is essential for everyone.

Recognizing the diversity of the population in Orlando, we will use On Aging 2025 as an opportunity to highlight inclusive and progressive programming designed to serve everyone. We also hope to offer sessions that will encourage advocacy for an age-inclusive society and showcase social action.

After a thrilling experience at On Aging 2024, ASA is delighted to again receive proposal submissions aligned with the Aging While Black and On Tech @ On Aging tracks. These sessions will continue to highlight unique perspectives and experiences from the Black community. The On Tech @ On Aging tracks will showcase advancements and innovations found in the Age Tech sector. We welcome submissions on leveraging tech for better care and better health, supporting caregivers, and aging in place.

Please visit our FAQ page for more information about the conference tracks available, the different session formats offered, and deadlines for presenters.
